It is important to note that not all fixed-income sectors react the same way to economic and interest-rate changes. Investors should be aware of the special risks involved with investments in bonds which are affected by interest-rate movements. Bond prices and, likewise, a bond fund's share price generally move in the opposite direction of interest rates. As the prices of bonds in a fund adjust to a rise in interest rates, a fund's share price may decline. Investments in lower-rated, higher-yielding instruments, which are subject to increased risk of default and can potentially result in loss of principal. Mortgage-backed securities are susceptible to prepayment risk. Changes in the financial strength of a bond issuer or in a bond's credit rating may affect its value. U.S. government securities may be subject to price fluctuations. An agency may default on an obligation not backed by the United States. Any guarantee on U.S. government securities does not apply to the value of the fund's shares. Mortgage-backed securities (MBS), changes in interest rates can cause both extension and prepayment risks for MBS. These securities are also subject to risks associated with the repayment of underlying collateral.

Barron's/Lipper Annual Ranking*

As part of "Barron's Best Mutual Fund Families" annual ranking.

Class A shares purchased subject to a front-end sales charge have no contingent deferred sales charge (CDSC). However, certain purchases of Class A shares made without a front-end sales charge may be subject to a CDSC of 1% if the shares are redeemed before the first day of the month in which the one year anniversary of the purchase falls. The CDSC is not reflected in the performance with maximum sales charge.

A Note about Risk: The Fund is subject to the general risks associated with investing in debt securities, including market, credit, liquidity, and interest rate risk. The value of an investment will change as interest rates fluctuate and in response to market movements. When interest rates fall, the prices of debt securities tend to rise, and when interest rates rise, the prices of debt securities are likely to decline. Debt securities are subject to credit risk, which is the risk that the issuer will fail to make timely payments of interest and principal to the Fund. The Fund may invest in high yield, lower-rated debt securities, sometimes called junk bonds, and may involve greater risks than higher-rated debt securities. These securities carry increased risks of price volatility, illiquidity, and the possibility of default in the timely payment of interest and principal. The Fund may invest in foreign or emerging market securities, which may be adversely affected by economic, political, or regulatory factors and subject to currency volatility and greater liquidity risk. The Fund may invest in derivatives, which are subject to greater liquidity, leverage, and counterparty risk. The Fund may also invest in convertible securities and senior loans, which are subject to increased credit and liquidity risks. These factors can affect Fund performance.

Treasuries are debt securities issued by the U.S. government and secured by its full faith and credit. Income from Treasury securities is exempt from state and local taxes. Although U.S. government securities are guaranteed as to payments of interest and principal, their market prices are not guaranteed and will fluctuate in response to market movements.

Morningstar Information

Data as of 12/31/2019. The Morningstar Rating for funds, or "star rating", is calculated for managed products (including mutual funds, variable annuity and variable life subaccounts, exchange-traded funds, closed-end funds, and separate accounts) with at least a three-year history. Exchange-traded funds and open-ended mutual funds are considered a single population for comparative purposes. It is calculated based on a Morningstar Risk-Adjusted Return measure that accounts for variation in a managed product's monthly excess performance, placing more emphasis on downward variations and rewarding consistent performance. The top 10% of products in each product category receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% receive 4 stars, the next 35% receive 3 stars, the next 22.5% receive 2 stars, and the bottom 10% receive 1 star. The Overall Morningstar Rating for a managed product is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its three-, five-, and 10-year (if applicable) Morningstar Rating metrics. The weights are: 100% three-year rating for 36-59 months of total returns, 60% five-year rating/40% three-year rating for 60-119 months of total returns, and 50% 10-year rating/30% five-year rating/20% three-year rating for 120 or more months of total returns. While the 10-year overall star rating formula seems to give the most weight to the 10-year period, the most recent three-year period actually has the greatest impact because it is included in all three rating periods. Ratings do not take into account the effects of sales charges and loads.

The Morningstar Intermediate Core Bond Average represents funds that focus on corporate, government, foreign, or other issues with an average duration of greater than or equal to 3.5 years, but less than or equal to six years, or an average effective maturity of more than four years, but less than 10 years.

The Morningstar High-Yield Bond Average represents funds with at least 65% of assets in bonds rated below BBB.

Morningstar U.S. Corporate Bond includes US corporate bonds with maturities of more than one year and at least $500 million outstanding.

The Morningstar Category Average is the average return for the peer group based on the returns of each individual fund within the group, for the period shown. This average assumes reinvestment of dividends.

Yield to maturity is the rate of return anticipated on a bond if held until it matures. Yield to maturity assumes all the coupon payments are reinvested at an interest rate that equals the yield-to-maturity. The yield to maturity is the long-term yield expressed as an annual rate.

Standard deviation is a measure of volatility. Applied to an asset's return, it provides a measure of the range of those returns. A higher standard deviation means a greater range of returns.

The Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index is an index of U.S. dollar-denominated, investment-grade U.S. government and corporate securities, and mortgage pass-through securities, and asset-backed securities. Index is unmanaged, does not reflect the deduction of fees or expenses, and is not available for direct investment.

Barron's, "Best Fund Families of 2018," March 11, 2019. Barron's rankings are based on asset-weighted returns in five categories — US equity funds; world equity funds; mixed equity funds; taxable bond funds; and tax-exempt funds. To be included for Lipper/Barron's Fund Survey, each fund in the survey must have had at least three funds in Lipper's general equity category, one world equity category, one mixed-asset, two taxable-bond funds and one national tax-exempt bond fund. Rankings also take into account an individual fund's performance within its Lipper peer universe. Each fund's return was measured against those of all funds in its Lipper category, resulting in a percentile ranking which was then weighted by asset size, relative to the fund family's other assets in its general classification. Lipper calculated each fund's net total return for the year ended December 31, 2018, minus the effects of 12b-1 fees and sales charges. Barron's Fund Family Rankings are awarded annually.
